

THEIR LIVES TOUCHED MY HEART!

My Experience in Gaunaha

“Whenever you did this for one the least important of these brothers of mine, you did it to me”, (Mt. 25:40). This is what I experienced and felt during my stay in Gaunaha. For me it was the first unique experience of this kind. Cycling to far-flung villages and being a part of Mushahar brethren oriented me towards my mission. At the end of each day, I could feel a sense of happiness and contentment. In addition, I got opportunities to expose my talents by conducting sports and youth training programmes for the Mushahar youth. Apart from the village exposure, I became part of the hostel children as well. They skilled me to be like a child. Their love for me made me humble and simple. The affection and care of the community members made me feel comfy. I felt belongingness to the community. These experiences taught me to be simple but full of love and happiness. They taught me to face the challenges which a social activist faces in his day to day life. On the last day, I could feel that I had touched the hearts of the children as they were crying. It was a difficult moment for me to say good bye to them but knowing the reality that I had to leave them, I moved on taking the golden memories and images of the people and the place in my heart. I thank God for these wonderful experiences.
